IN conjunction with the recent Mothers Day celebration, Grand Seasons Hotel, together the National Cancer Society Malaysia (NCSM) and the National Kidney Foundation (NKF), conducted a health screening and a talk on breast cancer for the less fortunate women from Rumah Titian Kasih, Titiwangsa, here.

NCSM Women Cancer Detention Centre head Dr Dalilah Kamaruddin conducted a talk on early detection of cancer for women and offered to conduct complimentary breast examinations and 3-D mammograms if required, at the centre.

Being the only charitable organisation that provides holistic cancer treatment and support to patients and caregivers, NCSM takes them through their journey in understanding and dealing with cancer in various phases through its five cancer centres, namely Cancer Treatment Centre, Women's Cancer Detection Centre, Nuclear Medicine Centre, Resource & Wellness Centre, and the Children's Home of Hope.

To support the talk, the NKF jointly conducted a health screening session which comprised checking blood pressure, urine, body mass index, and blood glucose, and counseling for the women.

Rumah Titian Kasih is a shelter home for orphans, children and single mothers from broken families, the disabled and senior citizens. Established 23 years ago, the home near Tasik Titiwangsa is managed by Sharifah Adlan, also known as Mak Pah.

The home has been receiving voluntary help from various institutions, organisations and individuals in continuing its operation to provide shelter for the people who need it, especially the young, who are homeless, where they receive education until they can live independently. For the single mothers at this home, they run their own small businesses selling snack food, mini catering and others as their source of income for this home.

Grand Seasons Hotel marketing communications manager Terry J.

Nathan said the hotel was proud to organise the event as part of its corporate social responsibility for the month of May. He said the hotel's female staff also took the opportunity to participate in the event.
