

Glow Run on July 20 to raise funds for kidney patients

THE National Kidney Foundation of Malaysia (NKF) is turning MAEPS Serdang into a glowing party.

The NKF Glow Run which is happening on July 20 will take participants down a luminous 5km route of neon lights with a party-like atmosphere from start to finish.

The event is a part of NKF's 50th anniversary celebration which aims at educating and increasing public awareness of kidney disease while raising funds to subsidise underprivileged kidney failure patients.

Decked in neon paint and accessories, participants will be transformed into moving, multi-coloured artwork while making their way through multiple fun zones, including the confetti room, balloon field and neon liquid station.

The celebrations will continue with a line-up of exciting activities such as neon face and body painting, giant hamster roll as well as live band performances.

Runners can look forward to getting an energy boost at the food trucks available.

Participants can also show their support by literally running the extra mile with the treadmill donation challenge which converts every kilometre covered into monetary contributions to NKF.

"NKF constantly encourages people to lead a healthy and active lifestyle. NKF Glow Run is a fun way to put this into practice," said NKF chief executive officer Chua Hong Wee.
